“ One of my favorite memories is when I was living with the Richardson family for a short while back in 2018 or 2019. I had work off while Trevor and his dad had to work that morning I slept in, and woke up to the song because I got high by Afroman and she would be giggling her butt off every time the song would mention getting high, all while doing the chores around the house and getting things ready for dinner that night, by far my favorite memory ❤️❤️
